The Argolis Peninsula in the Peloponnese

The town of Nafplion

A vibrant city-museum with listed architecture and majestic Venetian castles crowning the town. An aerial view of Nafplion features tile roofs, grey stone, grand homes and a blue-green sea- the famous Bourtzi, Akronafplia and Palamidi castles; a stunning seaport town, consisting of fortresses, neoclassical buildings, old neighborhoods, wide sidewalks and large squares. A town brimming with life that preserves its legends and lures you into its mystical ambience. It was the Venetians' "Naples of the East" and the first capital of Greece.

The Peloponnese is a celebration of contrasts: majestic mountains embraced by a dramatic, golden coastline of endless beaches and exotic coves. Argolis was the seat of power of the Mycenaean empire that ruled Greece from 1600 to 1100 BC. Traces of this mighty civilization lie scattered across the region in the shape of tholos tombs, citadels and ancient theatres. The region is filled with small villages by the sea and in the mountains, beautiful nature, alluring beaches, and ancient monuments around every corner.

The many faces of Athens

Athens is the oldest city in Europe, with a long history, dating back to the first settlement in the Neolithic age. In the 5th Century BC (the “Golden Age of Pericles”) – the culmination of Athens’ long, fascinating history – the city’s values and civilization acquired a universal significance. The city’s millennia history coexists with its contemporary side that boasts a vibrant art scene, rich gastronomy and modern architecture. Ancient temples, old mansions, remnants of the Roman and the Ottoman Empire, modern architecture, luxurious department stores and small old-time shops, fancy restaurants and traditional taverns; all have their place in this city and this together with its lively people make it a unique destination.
