Milos

amazing, volcanic beauty

Largely an undiscovered island, with perhaps the most interesting coastline of any other island this size in the world. A volcanic island, Milos is known as the island of colors, mainly because of its spectacular, colorful rock formations.

The island also has a fascinating history. The famous statue of Venus de Milo was discovered here in 1820, its early-Christian catacombs are older than Rome's and the island boasts an 11,000-year mining history.

Turquoise beaches surround the island but inland also hides treasures, like traditional villages hanging on wild cliffs, authentic tavernas and more. Athens

the many faces

Athens is the oldest city in Europe, with a long history, dating back to the first settlement in the Neolithic age. In the 5th Century BC (the “Golden Age of Pericles”) - the culmination of Athens’ long, fascinating history - the city’s values and civilization acquired a universal significance.

The city’s millenia history coexists with its contemporary side that boasts a vibrant art scene, rich gastronomy and modern architecture.

Grand Tour

Lying in the prefecture of Attica, at the edge of mainland Greece and above the Peloponnese, surrounded by the Aegean Sea and three grand mountains, under the bluest sky, the wider area of Athens is a miniature of Greece. There are beaches, Natura areas, UNESCO World Heritage sites, gastronomic treasures, rich architecture, lively vibe, culture and entertainment. Steeped in history. Athens is the oldest city in Europe and one of the oldest in the world. Named after the Olympian Goddess of wisdom and war strategy, Athena, evolved from unorganized prehistoric settlements to a grand city which laid the foundations of Western civilization. The contemporary city is equally rich in art, architecture, gastronomy, festivals and events, museums, stylish hotels, complemented by the hospitable human touch of its people. All this together constitutes a fascinating and soulful feeling like no other.
